FedACH Services

The FedACH Services product suite includes a wide range of easy-to-use transaction and information services that offer a variety of access and connectivity options.

FedACH Origination and Receipt

Expansive File Delivery Options

FedACH's flexibility allows you to prioritize your work to accommodate your operational, staffing and cash management requirements.

- Customize your delivery schedule with options for scheduled or on-demand delivery of every file you receive
- Select from 14 different sorting options, including by item type and/or settlement date
- Route each file to a different receiving point by having certain files delivered to your institution and other files delivered to your processor(s)

FedACH Information File Service

Provides an information-only copy of the FedACH file delivered to an institution's service provider for processing.

- May be useful to institutions that outsource ACH processing
- Can be used to automatically create return item and NOC transactions

Comprehensive Online Tools

The FedLine Advantage[®] Solution: Send and receive ACH files through a convenient online connection.

Our online features offer you additional flexibility to process your electronic payments.

- Provide up-to-date ACH payment and participant information
- Monitor the status of critical ACH files and batches
- Request an online trace to determine the disposition of an item and respond promptly to customer inquiries
- Evaluate the number and dollar amount of items in queue
- Request a file or advice remake online

Derived Return and Notification of Change (NOC) Functionality via Multiple FedLine[®] Solutions Packages

The derived return and NOC functions allow customers to select an item received within the past 60 business days, enter the required return reason code or NOC code, obtain the reference number of the return or NOC transaction, and print or download a copy of the derived item.

FedACH Risk® Management Services

Available via the FedLine Web® or FedLine Advantage Solutions, FedACH Risk Management Services provide depository financial institutions with tools to help mitigate ACH risk.

FedACH Risk Origination Monitoring Service

Control ACH payments originated by your customers regardless of the network entry point or ACH software.

- Originating depository financial institutions (ODFIs) can monitor ACH batches with selected routing transit numbers and company IDs
- Self-administer monitoring criteria. Monitoring is performed at the batch level and can be based on either a single processing day or multiple exposure days.

FedACH Risk RDFI Alert Service

- Proactively manage potential risks as a receiving depository financial institution (RDFI) and provide ACH information to your receivers
- Obtain information-only notice of unusual or noteworthy conditions within an RDFI's incoming FedACH batches/files and/or within the receiver's items

FedACH Risk Returns Reporting Service

- ODFIs can identify potential ACH fraud or problem accounts
- Obtain reports listing returns, whether unauthorized or administrative, for any originator with even a single return for a single day or for a range of up to 10 processing days within the previous 60 business days

FedACH SameDay Service

Accomplishes processing, editing, distribution and settlement of virtually any ACH payment during the current processing day as provided for by the ACH Rules.

FedPayments® Reporter Service

Available via FedLine Web or FedLine Advantage, the FedPayments Reporter Service for FedACH enables you to automatically search ACH transactions for ACH information, convert the data into human-readable reports and machine-readable files, and distribute the information within your institution or directly to your business customers.

- Generate reports automatically on a fixed schedule or request reports "on demand"
- Provide payment remittance detail to your customers including health care providers
- Receive reports in assorted file formats of your choice
- Receive automated email notifications
- Retrieve reports via an encrypted email portal
- Send reports to a FedLine Solution to facilitate population of online banking sites

Exception Resolution Service

Available via FedLine Web or FedLine Advantage, the Exception Resolution Service enables you to manage ACH exception cases for transactions settled in FedACH within the previous two years.

- Initiate, view and respond to cases electronically and securely
- Securely exchange supporting documentation for exception cases
- Assurance of successful case delivery with the other party
- Prevent the creation of duplicate cases
- Access a 13-month archive of exception cases
- Retrieve a daily report of open exception cases
